Classic design is timeless...

This handsome mountain property has many distinguishing architectural features, such as 'the bell-tower' on the roofline, which adds to the character and charm of this beloved home. It has been in the care of the original owner since being built in the mid 1990's. Wide covered front and side decks give ample outdoor living and entertaining spaces, with a desirable North/East position. The house enjoys views of undeveloped woodland, with limited sea glimpses through mature trees from these decks. Impressive entry hall flows to smart formal dining/lounge room. The lounge has an unusual timber atrium ceiling, which allows filtered light to flow to that living space, there is a sunny East facing reading nook off the lounge.
