Room for the Cars, the Tools and the Kids

Established gardens, wide grassy verges and a settled, neighbourly stretch of court set the scene for this single-storey brick home in the heart of Hampton Park. It is a private, uncomplicated address, and inside sits a practical layout ready for first home buyers, young families or investors.

Step through the entry and the formal lounge opens to the right, generous enough for a big sofa and a full dining setting, with sheer curtains softening the light through two windows and warm-toned floors underfoot. Further in, the kitchen and meals area sits beneath a skylight, where a peninsula bench doubles as a spot for breakfast, homework or a glass of wine while dinner comes together, and a sliding door lets summer meals drift straight
