Prime Grazing Country

"Rangeview" - Quality Basalt Grazing in the Coolah/Cassilis District
Comprising approximately 1,098 acres (444.6ha)*, "Rangeview" is a highly productive and well-balanced holding, offering quality red and black basalt country ranging from gently undulating open grazing through to lightly timbered areas providing natural shelter.
The property carries a diverse, predominantly native pasture base, with the natural finishing ability of this country a real feature. The district benefits from a reliable split summer and winter rainfall pattern, averaging approximately 640mm annually, well suited to breeding, backgrounding and finishing livestock.
"Rangeview" is presently carrying a large body of feed, with particularly strong stands of clover, medic, blue grass and plains grass evident across the grazing country. This is a
